Name : Rustom; Cast : Akshay Kumar, Ileana D'Cruz, Esha Gupta, .Q: Does using Agda's typeclass system require an immutable context? I'm trying to understand Agda in a way that understands what happens at the machine level. I'm also trying to understand how Agda's typeclass system compares to Haskell's. As I understand it, Agda's typeclass system is similar to Haskell's in that it allows a similar use of the type-class system to be implemented in Agda (i.e. using record syntax). As a concrete example, consider some module, like a simple typeclass: { -# LANGUAGE TypeFamilies #- } { -# LANGUAGE TypeClasses #- } { -# LANGUAGE UndecidableInstances #- } -- a simple typeclass: convert values to strings class Convert a where toString
