Wilcox PC DMIS V4 2

A: I've just had this issue and could resolve it by doing the following: Launch CHKDSK in Windows Reboot PC and run CHKDSK again Disable Hyper-V and disable the tools host Disable the Tools Host from the Hyper-V host settings Reboot PC and run the tools host host again If you are able to access the tools host after this (sometimes it won't let me in to CHKDSK), then you should be able to get in to the disk management utility... Hope this helps! A: My disk caddy was booting the wrong disk: I disabled my motherboard USB boot menu. I then opened the BIOS setup and set my boot order to CD-ROM:DELL. When I restarted, it worked. The whole thing was crazy and really confusing to me.
